MR. SEWARD DURING HIS ILLNESS.

Mr. George Vecke, who attended Mr. Seward, gives the following account, which is translated from the Illinois Staats Zeitung:

On the morning after the assassination he said to his nurses his sensations immediately after the assault had by no means been of an unpleasant nature. He had experienced no extraordinary pains, but while the blood had been gushing from his arteries he had supposed that his last end was nigh, and thought at the same time what a pleasant thing it was to die without pain.

Toward his nurses and toward all who came near him during his sickness, Mr. Seward was uniformly friendly, even affectionate; and never, when awake, did his philosophical firmness desert him. Only when asleep he would, at times, during the first two weeks after the attack, suddenly start up and beat around with his hands when dreams brought the assassin to his imagination, but in two or three minutes he was always quieted.

During the first three weeks Mrs. Seward was constantly, day and night, at the bedside either of her husband or that of Frederick, and these exertions have since hastened the death of a lady equally distinguished for the excellent qualities of her head and of her heart. No less noble was the conduct of Mr. Seward's daughter, Miss Fanny. Indeed, it is perhaps to her courage that her father and the country owe the salvation of his life. Like her mother, Miss Fanny was an untiring attendant upon her suffering relatives.

The greatest trouble to the physicians was Seward's mental activity, which did not abate even during his greatest physical weakness and severest pains. In order to prevent all excitement during this critical period, and on account of his shattered jaw bone, the physicians enjoined on him not to speak, but it was difficult to get him to comply.

It was not mere idle loquacity that rendered silence so irksome to the statesman, but chiefly his patriotic anxiety about the Republic. He desired to express his mind about the condition of the country, to fulfill his official duties as Secretary of State. The attending physicians had prohibited speaking before the attempted assassination, but to express his thoughts by writing was also impracticable, as his right arm was broken. But as soon as the condition of his fractured bones would allow, the medical gentlemen had to bandage and fasten the upper third of the arm, (where the fracture existed,) so as to enable him to use the lower part and the hand for writing. In this manner he conversed with the President during the last days of that lamented functionary's life. The President would sit at his bedside and express himself on the exciting questions of the day, when Seward would write his views on a slate. In the same manner he conducted his interviews, before and after the assassination, with Mr. Hunter, the Assistant Secretary of State, and thus actually conducted the affairs of the Department of State, the papers, dispatches, documents, &c., of which had to be carried to his bedside, even during the critical periods of his illness.

It was the same patriotic restlessness and activity of Mr. Seward which prevailed on the physicians to send for a skillful physician of New York, who arranged an artificial wire apparatus in his mouth, which enabled him to speak without risk, even before his jawbone was healed. This apparatus caused the illustrious patriot excruciating pains, and at one time became displaced, so that the New York physician had to be telegraphed in order to replace it. But all these great and little annoyances did not for a moment disturb Seward's philosophic intellect nor slacken his patriotic activity.

Few men in history have evinced such sublimity of character and strength of mind as William H. Seward on his bed of sickness, surrounded by the terrors of assassination and conspiracy. He maintained these qualities even when, after his partial recovery, he received the additional blow of the intelligence of the death of his faithful spouse.

LEGEND OF THE WANDERING JEW.

Goethe in his Autobiography has furnished us with the correct version of this remarkable myth. It seems to have had a sort of traditional existence both amongst Christians and Jews from a period shortly after the crucifixion of our Saviour. It has been interwoven with both sacred and profane literature to an extent hardly appreciated, except by men of thorough scholarship. The Patristic writings contain frequent allusions to it, and according to present recollection it forms the basis of some of the best modern fictions. It furnishes the key-note to Bulwer's Zanoni, Croly's Salathiel, and Eugene Sue's Juif Errant.

The legend relates that there resided at Jerusalem a certain Ahasuerus, a shoemaker by trade, who was a personal favorite with Christ and his apostles. They often turned aside to commune on earthly as well as heavenly things with this humble but intelligent craftsman.— He seems to have had a great deal of mere human sympathy for our Saviour, but no just appreciation of his Messianic office.

He is said, however, to have remonstrated against the wandering life of Jesus, and to have often urged him, in his matter-of-fact way, to abandon his profession of a mendicant philosopher and become a fellow-craftsman with himself. The legend further states that Ahasuerus admonished the Saviour that his course would, in spite of himself, make him the head of a Party, and that in the end he would be victimized by the political and religious rulers of Judea. As Christ, after his arrest and condemnation, went to the mount of crucifixion, he passed the shop of Ahasuerus at the gate of the city, who, seeing the multitude, came forth and reproached him most bitterly and vehemently for disregarding the counsels he had formerly given him. At this moment the lovely Veronica threw her mantle over the marred visage of the Redeemer as if to hide his face from grief and shame. When she lifted off the mantle, Ahasuerus saw depicted upon it the countenance of the sufferer transfigured and radiant with supernal beauty. At the same instant, Jesus, pausing on the way, said to him, "Ahasuerus, thou shalt be a wanderer in the Earth until thou seest me coming in that form." The guilty man was overwhelmed by that announcement, and from that hour he has passed like night from land to land, the type of everlasting unrest.

We have always thought that this legend originated from the saying of Christ to Peter with reference to the beloved disciple—"What if I will that he tarry till I come." John himself tells us that there was a current saying amongst the disciples that he should not see death before the second advent. This, we think, gives an ample historical basis for the christian legend.

The idea embodied in this myth is not peculiar to any form of religious faith. We find its analogue in the stone of Sisyphus, the wheel of Ixion, and the sieve-drawing daughters of Danaus. It is the living illustration of the scriptural truth that there is "no rest for the wicked," no poppy or mandragora that can soothe a defiled conscience; no Lethean draught that can steep the senses of the unrepentant sinner in forgetfulness. It is a grand, yet at the same time a terrible truth. Retribution treads ever more on the heels of guilt. It waylays [illegible] path—dogs every retreat [illegible] its victim with the [illegible] of an avenging Nemesis. The Christian doctrine of the Atonement alone reveals a purchased redemption and a gracious deliverance for the weary wanderer after rest. Without it, man is a homeless exile from happiness and heaven. The sworded Cherubim guards the way of the tree of life. And thus like Ahasuerus, burdened with the malison of an insulted Redeemer, he wanders on and on and on until the feverish dream of life is ended. And then even the disembodied spirit starts upon the broad journeyings of eternity without a friendly guide, and destined never to reach the shining goal of infinite and endless blessedness. Let him that readeth pause and ponder.—[Mobile News.

THE HOT SPRINGS OF THE TRUCKEE.

A California paper says:

A short distance from Say's Station, on the Truckee River, well down toward Pyramid Lake, stands a low mountain of lime—apparently limestone burned and ready for use in mortar. At the base of this mountain are several hot springs, in number and activity rivaling the famous Steamboat Springs of Washoe Valley. These springs appear to be gradually working their way toward the lime mountain, at the base of which they are situated. That they were once much lower down in the valley is evident from the extinct craters left in their wake. In many places steam is constantly being puffed from the ground, many of the holes through which it escapes being but an inch or two in diameter. In case these holes are filled with stones and tamped with clay, a sufficient head of steam gathers in the course of fifteen or twenty minutes to cause an explosion, the stones and tamping being thrown high into the air. In the ground about the extinct craters a constant rumbling is heard. The water in the springs seems now to be rapidly falling. Last year the water sank in the same way until the springs were almost dry, when of a sudden they burst out with a tremendous explosion in a new place. The explosion occurred in the night and while some emigrants were encamped near the spot. The emigrants say that they were first aroused by a quaking and rumbling of the ground; that there followed several explosions, flames bursting up in various places, soon succeeded, however, by columns of water, spouting thirty or forty feet into the air. Those who live in the vicinity of the springs think, from present indications, that there will soon be another grand blow-up. All the water used in the new Truckee mines, eight miles away, is hauled from these springs. It is strongly impregnated with a kali. Many of the settlers attribute the real origin of the shocks of earthquake felt at various times in California, and also the volcanic eruptions in Nevada, to the chemical action of the waters of these alkaline springs.

Miscellaneous.

Lewiston Falls Academy!

THIS Institution will enter upon its seventh year, in August, under the management of its present Principal. More than seven hundred students have been in attendance within the past year. The Trustees encouraged by its success, and not unmindful of the demands of the age for educated business men, educated mechanics, men educated with special reference to this practical age and nation, have decided to add to the Academic Course two Departments—a Commercial and a Scientific and Industrial Department.

The Commercial Department.

The design of this Course is to furnish young men with such instruction as will enable them to engage at once in any branch of commercial business. It will combine the Theoretical and Practical. Rooms suitable for Banking, Business Offices, Telegraphing, Penmanship, Book-keeping, &c., have been engaged in the New Town Block.

Competent and experienced teachers have been engaged; and more will be added as the exigencies of this department shall require. It is intended to furnish instruction equal to that obtained in the best Commercial Colleges. One can easily perceive the advantages which may be derived from the connection of this department with the Academy, where a thorough knowledge of the Modern languages can be obtained—a knowledge indispensable to business men in many parts of our Union.

The Branches Taught

Are Book-keeping in all its forms; Commercial Law; Commercial Arithmetic, Business Correspondence; Telegraphing; Penmanship, Phonography, &c.

General Facilities

Are offered to ladies desiring to pursue Penmanship and Book-keeping. There will be a Course of Lectures on Commercial Law by gentlemen eminent in [illegible]

The Scientific and Industrial Department.

The studies of this course will occupy two years, and include instruction by lessons in those branches of the Abstract Mathematics not taken up in the Academic Course; Land Surveying, Geometrical Drawing; Mechanical Drawing; Architectural Drawing; Shades, Shadows and Linear perspective, Astronomy; Navigation; Leveling; Mechanics; Location of Roads; Calculating Excavation and Embankment; Construction of Roads; Strength of Materials, Bridge Construction; Mechanics of Machinery and Engineering; Mechanical Principles of Architecture; Masonry, Stone Cutting; Geology, Mineralogy; the French and German Languages, and History. Instruction will also be given by Lectures in Physical Geography; Logic and Political economy.

As much time will be given to field-work with the Compass, Surveyor's Transit and Engineer's Level, as the arrangement of studies will permit.

THE STUDIES OF THE FALL TERM (first of the course) are Analytical Geometry, Surveying, Geometrical Drawing, and French.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Newspapers, stump orators and political resolution-makers have had much to say about the Monroe Doctrine, and yet it is believed that only a small proportion of those who use or hear the term have both a definite and a correct idea of what that doctrine is. There is a very general impression that this doctrine if carried out, would prevent any foreign prince from gaining a foothold on this continent, no matter under what circumstances he might attempt it. If Mexico, Central America, or any other American state should, by peaceful and legitimate treaty, attempt to transfer a portion of its territory to a European sovereign, to make room for a European prince on this side of the Atlantic, it has been thought by many that this would be a violation of the Monroe Doctrine, and that the United States, under that "doctrine," would be called upon to prevent, by force if necessary, any such transplanting of royalty from the Old to the New World; and yet no one has been able to tell from whence we derived the right thus to interfere with our neighbors. Now the Monroe Doctrine is too sensible to cover any such meddlesome spirit as this on the part of our government. The whole of this famous doctrine is embraced in a single paragraph of the annual message of President Monroe, of Dec. 2, 1823.

That was a time when the South American States as well as Mexico were in the throes of revolution; or when they had ignored foreign rule, spurned the Spanish yoke, and asserted and were laboring to maintain and establish their rights as free, independent and sovereign States. It was at such a time, and under such circumstances, and with reference to such a condition of affairs, that the President said in his annual message already referred to:

"With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered, and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence, and maintained it, and whose independence we have on great consideration, and on just principles acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them, or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power, in any other light than as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States."

The above is the "Monroe Doctrine." It was a friendly word for those peoples which, like our own, had thrown off the foreign yoke, and successfully asserted their right to be free and independent; it was a word of admonition to any foreign power that should attempt to oppress or control them; it was an assertion of our sympathy for such infant and struggling governments; a distinct avowal that their cause and our own were so nearly identified that a blow at them would be regarded as an unfriendly act towards ourselves.

It seems to us the case of Mexico, at the present moment, affords precisely such an example as Mr. Monroe contemplated, and if the Monroe Doctrine is sound, that we owe it to ourselves to notify Messrs. Napoleon and Maximilian that we can look upon their foray in Mexico in "no other light than as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States." At any rate, we would send to each of these twin usurpers and despots a copy of Mr. Monroe's message, with the paragraph copied above marked with a pen, endorsed with "the respects of Brother Jonathan."—Such a notice would probably be enough, especially if served at the present time when we have so many "boys in blue" whose terms of service has not expired, and when our fleet is formidable in the face of the world. The Great Eastern, should she succeed in landing the cable safely, could not be better employed than as a transport to carry "Max." and his single handful of courtiers and his double handful of troops, back to the other side of the Atlantic, where the soil is better fitted to grow monarchies and despotisms than is the soil of this Western world.

[ ]vs. REPRESENTA[TIVE] [ ]E MEN.

[ ] article entitled "The Slave [ ]," which appeared in a recent [number] of The Nation, expresses not inaptly some of the doubts and anxieties which may force themselves upon a thoughtful mind in view of the present important crisis of our country's history, and lifts a voice of warning in relation to certain dangers which may beset us. Among these dangers are enumerated the giddiness which comes from the intoxication of success, the peril which may grow out of the immense power of moneyed corporations, out of the recently promulgated tenets of the Church of Rome, out of the possibility that with our strong tendency to extremes the well-founded dread of the theory of State Sovereignty may carry us into the opposite error of over-centralization, and, last but not least, the writer names the dangers growing out of what he calls "our miserable mediocrity worship," our habit of choosing common-place men for our rulers and representatives, a habit of which he says:

"It deprives the country of the services of many of its valuable citizens. It renders whole classes of educated and able men lukewarm in their patriotism, so that some terrible crisis is needed to awaken their latent devotion. It gives our enemies abroad a real argument against our institutions, which our friends abroad cannot gainsay.

As this little extract seems to touch the key-note of much that has been lately said in a variety of quarters, we propose to give the matter a few moments examination. We are of the opinion that there is a good deal of misconception on this point. In the fact that various constituencies sometimes fail to return to office men of the highest ability, we are quite unable to see anything alarming. As we view the theory of our government, the object is not merely to put able men into office that that they in their wisdom may govern the masses, but to represent the sentiment of the masses who wish to govern themselves. If a representative form of government is really founded on sound principles, its advantages must best be secured by making it as completely representative as possible. What though it does sometimes follow that inferior men are lifted to responsible positions, that does not really militate against the system. The fact that a constituency of New York roughs returns Fernando Wood to Congress, is not the point of danger; it is the existence of the constituency which is perilous. So long as that debased element exists, it is far less a source of peril with than without its adequate representation. The presence of such a man in the national councils is a perpetual beacon, warning us of the dangerous rocks and whirlpools which lie hidden in the bosom of society.

We take it for granted that no one will be so stupid as to attribute to us the idea that the character of our legislators is of no consequence. It is of immense consequence. But, under our theory of government, the first point to be secured is that they shall have a truly representative character, and then if the result is unsatisfactory we know where to apply the corrective. If reform be needed we must begin at the foundation, and work up; to attempt to reverse the process by working from the head down can only result in failure.

The Boston Advertiser, commenting upon the recent return of Mr. Gladstone for the southern division of Lancashire, after his rejection by the University of Oxford, says:

"In spite of our representative system, one which we are apt to plume ourselves overmuch, it must be confessed that what our English cousins have done in this case could hardly have been accomplished here by any thing short of a miracle. If Mr. Gladstone had represented for eighteen years an American constituency and it had fallen behind him, he would have hardly any means of escape from a political retirement injurious both to him and to the country, except by taking his chance of securing some executive appointment, if the national administration were friendly to him.

Whatever advantages our system offers in other respects,—and they are not few nor small,—it certainly does fall behind the English system in respect to provision for making [available for public service the best men in] the country. The English refusal to make residence in what we should call the district a necessary qualification, opens the whole field, both for men who are able and ambitious to serve the public, and for constituencies which are anxious to secure the best attainable representatives. It saves the country from the mortification of seeing men of great powers necessarily kept idle in one place, while mere mediocrity, favored by the lack of geographical position, occupies public places elsewhere."

We will do the Advertiser the justice to say that we do not often find in its columns so much nonsense as appears in this paragraph. We had not supposed that the object of Congressional elections was merely to afford to able men, "ambitious to serve their country," a field for the exercise of their ability. We submit that if the supposed case were real, if Mr. Gladstone had for eighteen years represented an American constituency and it had so far fallen behind him, then he is no longer its fitting representative, and he should accept the fact without whimpering. It may be all the worse for the constituency that it could not keep up to that desirable standard, but so far as the member is concerned, he is no longer the "right man in the right place," and should seek another field for the exercise of his abilities. There is something puerile in the complaints we hear that our "mediocrity worship" keeps educated men out of public life. It savors of that deep devotion to "post offices and such," which makes Petroleum V. Nasby so eloquent, and comes mainly from soured and disappointed men who have failed in selfish and ambitious ends. It is not true that the higher orders of intelligence are excluded from influence and office in this country. They have their full share, as any one can convince himself by examining the lists of public officers. And for the rest, if they cannot find educated constituencies which will prefer them, let them set about educating the public mind up to their standard. Real superiority always make itself felt, in one way if not in another. If they cannot be the governing class they may be the influential and controlling class. For we repeat, that in the sphere of government they must and ought to share the honor, the privilege and the duty with those below them.—Were a nation composed wholly of highly educated men unquestionably it would be better that its government should be wholly administered by such. But the most gifted and highly educated men are mortal and fallible, and not above the temptation selfishly to legislate for the benefit of their own class. It is well for the State to have the benefit of their wisdom; but it is not well that the sentiments, the interest, the possibly erroneous opinions of the less educated should lack their appropriate and legitimate expression. We are able to see no way in which every class can be secured in the expression of its rights and liberties except for every class to have its share in the government.

AN INTERESTING STATEMENT.—In his remarks preceding the presentation of the diplomas at the Abbott Female Academy, last week, Prof. Park stated that in the same month and on the same day of the month on which he was born, another man was born.—Thirty-nine years ago, when he took his Latin diploma, that other man had not learned to read. To-day he was the humble President of Abbot Female Academy, and the other man was President of the United States. This was said in illustration of woman's influence, it being well known that Mr. Johnson was indebted in no small degree for his education to his Northern wife. He never attended school a day in his life. But "there is no royal road to learning," and "honor and fame from no condition rise."

☞ The other day, a Boston hack driver struck a four year old boy with his whip, the lash of which wound around the boy's neck, and throwing him down, the wheels of the hack passed over him, injuring him so that he survived but a few moments.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

—While the King of Prussia is keeping the Duke of Augustenburg out of his possessions, his Majesty is very polite towards the Duke's family. He has been paying great attention to the Duke's sister at Carlsbad, and on her departure presented her with an enormous bouquet. The Duke, however, is not disposed to consider his sister's nosegay an equivalent for Schleswig-Holstein.

—It is again rumored that Austria will recognize Italy, and that France is using her efforts to bring this about. The price which Italy will have to pay for recognition is the abandonment of all designs upon Venetia, which to those who are acquainted with the strength of the Quadrilateral will seem no very great sacrifice.

—The return of Prince Kung to the management of public affairs in China, has given satisfaction to those who desire to see China advance in civilization. The first result of this event is the concession of a railway between Shanghai and Pekin. The telegraphic communication between Russia and Pekin is to be pushed on at once.

—The Princess Helena has been married at least a dozen times by the continental papers. The Hague correspondent of the Europe says that the Prince of Orange has gone to London again, and believes he is set out upon an interesting errand. The Queen of the Netherlands is said to be very desirous of the match, and to see her son "range" himself. The Europe adds that the Prince decidedly wants "ranging."

—The state of politics in Italy is said to be very unsatisfactory. A Ministerial crisis is looked for daily, but who will succeed La Marmora is by no means certain. Signor Lanza is said to be very ambitious of doing so. He is at present Minister of the Interior.

—The death of another millionaire is reported from Hamburg, letters from which place state that Mr. Carl Heine has just died at Bagneres. This gentleman was the last surviving partner of the world-famous house of Heine and Co., and it is stated that his property will exceed the sum of two millions and a half sterling.

—A keeper at the Antwerp Zoological Gardens was lately attacked by the monkeys in the collection of animals, and would have been killed but for the arrival of timely aid. As it was, he was bitten in twenty-three places, and was confined to his bed two days from loss of blood.

—At an assize court in France, a few days since, a girl 13 1-2 years of age was convicted of arson, and of an attempt to poison her master and one of his laborers. She was ordered to be confined in the house of correction till the completion of her eighteenth year.

—The Berne papers announce that three English gentlemen lost their lives while descending the Matterhorn, in the Canton Valais, on the 14th ult. One of them made a false step and fell, drawing two others of the party and the guide after him. All four persons immediately rolled down the side of the mountain and fell over the precipice, 4,000 feet deep. The names of the unfortunate gentlemen who perished are, Lord Francis Douglas, 19 years old; Mr. Haddo, and Mr. Charles Hudson, of the London Alpine Club. The name of the guide is Croz. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

—The Courier du Havre calls upon the American government or its representative in Europe to investigate the charges brought against the captain and officers of the William Nelson by forty passengers. These charges, it says, are overwhelming, and should be specifically denied, or be investigated by the proper authorities.

—A fine piece of carpeting, measuring 14 feet by 20, the first of the kind manufactured in Austria, has just been placed in the Museum at Vienna. It presents a map of the railways of Central Europe, and was produced at Prague.

—It is estimated that there are about one hundred thousand Americans in Europe at this time. Probably there will have been altogether not less than two hundred thousand there in the course of this summer. Paris is, of course, their chief place of resort, but they penetrate into every country of Europe.

—The King of Siam has received the cross of the Legion of Honor.

THE CONNECTICUT MURDERS.

The Hartford Times says the shocking revelation on Wednesday afternoon the addition of the climax of horror in the confession of Albert L. Starkweather, the son, who acknowledges to have perpetrated the crime,—that he and he alone, butchered his own mother and his sister, as they lay asleep in bed together.

The confession—which was not unexpected by those best informed of the facts—was made by the prisoner in the jail in this city, to Mr. James Campbell of Manchester—the father of the girl to whom the prisoner was engaged to be married. The chief of police, believing that he would acknowledge more to Campbell than to anybody else, procured the latter to go to the jail yesterday afternoon, where the wretched young man, discarding all his previous lies and contrivances to avoid detection, made a clean breast of it, and confessed the awful crime.

He acknowledged, after some questioning, that he had butchered his mother and then his sister with the axe, and then to make certain of the fiendish job, he had repeatedly plunged his butcher knife into their throats and bosoms; winding up the deed of horror by setting the bed on fire, and then his own bed, down stairs.

"I did it," he said, "I did it, Mr. Campbell, out of love for your daughter, and nothing else. I felt I must have that money, for without it she would not marry me; and I got the money."

It appears that the prisoner was a fellow of dissipated and extravagant habits, and the young woman had refused to have anything to do with him until his debts were paid; and it was to obtain money for this purpose that he proceeded to butcher in cold blood the mother who bore him and the innocent little sister who slumbered by her side. The wretch manifested little or no emotion, but showed a kind of stolid and brutal indifference. The plea of insanity will very likely be set up in his favor, and for the credit of humanity one could wish it might be established; but it is conceded by all who have seen him that the prisoner shows no symptoms of insanity. For simple, cold-blooded atrocity his act is unsurpassed in the annals of crime.

SYMPATHY WITH MEXICO—THE SERENADE AT DELMONICO'S.

The serenade given last evening at Delmonico's, corner of Fourteenth Street and Fifth Avenue, by the United Service Club to the distinguished Mexican now stopping in this city, was quite a handsome affair. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed among the invited guests in regard to Mexico, the Monroe doctrine and its enforcement. The following were some of the toasts:

"The Republic of Mexico." "President Juarez." "Gen. Ortega." "The President and Gen. Grant—the former the greatest statesman, the latter the greatest general, of this or any other country."

"The integrity of the Mexican Republic."—Col. Hillyer having been loudly called for, responded in a very eloquent speech, in which he said that the attempt to crush out the liberties of the Mexicans was a blow aimed at the United States, and as such, this country was bound to notice it. That it was almost certain President Johnson had already notified the French Government that it must withdraw its troops, and in conclusion read a brief extract from a letter from Gen. Sheridan to one "high in authority in the armies of the United States," in which he said: "It is no use beating round the bush; the Liberal government of Mexico must be maintained." He gave:

"Major General Philip Sheridan."

Three groans were given for Maximilian with the heartiest good will.

Cheers were given for the Liberating Army of Mexico, for the Monroe doctrine, for the American Republic, &c., &c.

At a late hour, after many expressions of good will to Mexico and hatred and detestation for Maximilian, the festivities were brought to a close.—[N. Y. Tribune.

"The deep damnation of his taking off."

ITEMS OF STATE NEWS.

☞ "A Maine Man in Washington" has sent us a second article, designed, it seems to us, to make people in this state dissatisfied with their condition and homes, and to promote emigration to Virginia. As a Maine editor we are not disposed to aid in any such depleting process, and therefore we decline to publish. We are satisfied that our contented population are happier and better off than they can be by removal, and we prefer to encourage immigration to the State rather than emigration from it.

☞ The Argus says that George E., son of James Pennell of Saccarappa, while on a visit to his grandmother in New Gloucester, went in bathing three times on Friday last, and soon after coming from the water the third time suddenly expired. He was eighteen years of age.

☞ A paper before us whose editor is a high temperance official, advertises "the fluid extract of rye,"—a sort of Schiedam Schnapp whiskey, we take it,—"Norfolk Ale in bbls., 1-2 bbls. and bottles," "Fisher's golden ale in common sense tumblers for five cents," &c. We are sorry to see this. The Press, which makes no special pretensions in the direction of temperance, has steadily refused for nearly two years, to insert advertisements of liquors, except for medicinal purposes.

☞ Referring to the numerous picnics got up in this city, the Gardiner Journal very sensibly remarks: "Now we believe that this is a [ ]ing money, and can afford to enjoy themselves, and like good, sensible men and women they do so, and we wish the Gardiner folks could be taken the same way. But they are not. They never have any picnics, or excursions, but stay at home, and work, work, work, till their backs are as crooked as rams' horns, and their heads prematurely grey. They are an industrious, good-hearted, whole-souled people, and we know it, for we have summered them and wintered them, and we know that no better hearts can be found anywhere than beat under the vests and cotton of our population, and for this cause we want to see them enjoy themselves, once in a while."

☞ We confess we see no force in our New Hampshire correspondent's communication on imprisonment for debt. It is no fault of our law that a young man is a vagabond, or that after he goes to work he is called upon to pay the bills contracted in his vagabond state, or that, because so called upon, he lapses again into inebriety. Nor do we think a law in relation to the collection of debts should be framed to meet such cases. The other case of hardship which he mentions is no more than may arise under any law. We insist that honest men are protected under our laws as far forth as can be done consistently with justice to all parties.

☞ Describing Gen. Grant's arrival at Bethel, a correspondent says: Here was collected a bevy of beautiful young ladies, who rattled their tongues at an alarming rate. "Oh, I see his hand," "What beautiful whiskers," "Oh, what eyes," "O dear me, O dear me, I must kiss him," were some of the sentences dropped. If this had been communicated to any other than a metropolitan journal it might have been deemed decidedly silly.

GLADSTONE IN THE SAME BOAT WITH JOHN BROWN.—At a speech in Liverpool on the 19th, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said: "I don't know, gentlemen, whether any among you have happened to see a remarkable song that has been used during the late deadly struggle in America—now happily closed—and which relates to the rebellion—of one whose name will long be remembered in that country. I mean Captain John Brown. But the song runs thus, and it was used to animate the spirit of the armies:—

Old John Brown is dead,
But his soul is marching on,

(cheers and cries of "bravo.") Well, gentlemen, I am dead in Oxford—laughter and cries of "shame")—but in some manner or other, I believe that in South Lancashire I am marching on."

THE RICHMOND MARKETS.—The cheapness of summer edibles at Richmond ought to put our marketmen to the blush. On Wednesday beef was reported dull at 7 to 16 cents per pound; mutton, 10 to 16; spring chickens, 50 cents to $1 per pair; cucumbers, 5 cents per dozen; green corn, 6 cents per dozen; tomatoes, 2 1-2 to 5 cents per quart; watermelons, 5 to 25 cents, and mushmelons, 2 1-2 to 10 cents each; whortleberries, 5 cents per quart.

A correspondent of the Chicago Republican says the majority interest of the New York Tribune has passed into the hands of Mr. Samuel Sinclair, long connected with the publishing department, and of Mr. S. The Dead that might be Living.

It is sad to think that thousands die annually with the means of life and health almost within arm's length. Many a weakling goes down to the grave every day whom the timely use of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS would have saved. It is a consolation, however, to know that this glorious Tonic—a vitalizing Elixir without a single drawback—is preserving the lives of multitudes. In cases of general debility and prostration, it is producing effects that are perhaps more astonishing than anything heretofore observed or recorded in the history of medical treatment. Feeble, emaciated, and despairing patients, whose powers of digestion seem to be actually extinguished, recover their appetite, strength and spirits, under a course of the Bitters, with a rapidity that is positively amazing. All that the proprietors originally expected from the preparation was long ago thrown into the shade by its actual results. New virtues, which they had never thought of attributing to it, are continually being developed in its application to new cases. As a preventative of diseases of every class and a constitutional invigorant it stands alone and unapproachable.

Remonstrance of J. S. Palmer against altering the grade of Grove street was placed on file.

S. W. Emery and W. G. Hart were appointed special policemen without pay.

Petition of J. B. Brown and 187 others, that the city will lease J. P. Shaw a lot of land for a riding park was read, and on motion of Alderman Foster, who said Mr. Shaw wished to withdraw the petitions, leave to withdraw was voted.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

CRIMINAL TERM—BARROWS, J., PRESIDING

MONDAY.—In the case of State vs. George Robinson and William Baxter, indicted for robbing Orrin P. Walker of $85 and a watch, the jury returned a verdict of guilty against both prisoners.

Thomas Ross, a lad of 11 years, (indicted with Samuel Morgan, who had pleaded guilty) was tried on an indictment charging him with compound larceny, in breaking and entering the shop of Daniel Coffin and stealing therefrom twenty-five cents and six bunches of fire crackers. The case was argued for the defendant by Mr. Parker, and for the State by Mr Butler.

After being out three hours the jury came in and reported that they were unable to agree upon a verdict. They were then discharged.

M. M. Butler, Chadbourne—Parker.

John McHardell was tried on an indictment charging him with receiving goods stolen from the Grand Trunk Railway, to wit., two Babbitt boxes. The prisoner is defended by Mr. Chadbourne and Mr. Parker. The trial is not finished.

THIRD PARISH CHURCH.—The member of this Church held a meeting last evening in the Vestry. Deacon Libby was chosen Moderator. The full report of the doings of the late Council was read and accepted. Mr. Walton's resignation came up before the meeting, and was unanimously accepted, but with the understanding that he should again be hired. After that, Deacon Gould offered a motion that Mr Walton be hired another year. Several brief speeches were made upon it, but apparently in a very good spirit. The vote was taken and thirty-one voted in favor and nine against it. Some of those who voted against the motion desired a little more time for consideration, but the feeling was strong for Mr. Walton, and the majority were anxious to have the question settled then, and for the reason that the Pastor of their choice might not be compelled to wait longer for the result. On the whole the meeting was characterized by a Christian spirit and all spoke highly of Mr. Walton's devotion to the cause of his Master.

THE CATHOLIC FAIR.—Our readers will bear in mind that the Fair will commence at City Hall on the 22d instant, and continue one week. Great preparations have been made, and no doubt the exhibition will be a splendid affair. A gentleman of New York city has presented to this Fair a basket of flowers similar to the one given to the Sanitary

The political news by the Damascus is unimportant.

Wade Hampton's Advice to the Southern People.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.

The Columbia, S. C. Phenix, has a letter from Wade Hampton discouraging the idea of emigration which it seems that a number of his friends have entertained, and asked his advice upon. He advises them to devote all their endeavors to the work of restoring law, order, agriculture, commerce, &c., and recommends all who can do so to take the oath of allegiance. He tells them to select from the coming convention the best and truest men, not those who have skulked in the hour of danger, nor those who worshipped mammon while their country was bleeding at every pore, nor the politician who, after urging war, dared not encounter its hardships, but those who have laid their all upon the altar of their country.

REMOVAL!

DR. W. N. DEMING,
Medical Electrician,
Has removed his office from Clapp's Block to
174 MIDDLE STREET,
Nearly Opposite the United States Hotel,

WHERE he would respectfully announce to the citizens of Portland and vicinity, that he has permanently located in this city. During the two years we have been in this city, we have cured some of the worst forms of disease in persons who have tried other forms of treatment in vain, and curing patients in so short a time that the question is often asked, do they stay cured? To answer this question we will say that all that do not stay cured, we will doctor the second time.

Dr. D. has been a practical Electrician for twenty-one years, and is also a regular graduated physician. Electricity is perfectly adapted to chronic diseases in the form of nervous or sick headache; neuralgia in the head, neck, or extremities; consumption when in the acute stages or where the lungs are not fully involved; acute or chronic rheumatism, scrofula, hip diseases, white swellings, spinal diseases, curvature of the spine, contracted muscles, distorted limbs, palsy or paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, deafness, stammering or hesitancy of speech, dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and liver complaint, piles—we cure every case that can be presented; asthma, bronchitis, strictures of the chest, and all forms of female complaints.

By Electricity

The Rheumatic, the gouty, the lame and the lazy leap with joy, and move with the agility and elasticity of youth; the heated brain is cooled; the frost-bitten limbs restored, the uncouth deformities removed; faintness converted to vigor, weakness to strength; the blind made to see, the deaf to hear and the palsied form to move upright; the blemishes of youth are obliterated, the ACCIDENTS of mature life prevented; the calamities of old age obviated and an active circulation maintained.

LADIES

Who have cold hands and feet; weak stomachs, lame and weak backs; nervous and sick headache; dizziness and swimming in the head, with indigestion and constipation of the bowels; pain in the side and back; leucorrhœa, (or whites); falling of the womb with internal cancers; tumors, polypus, and all the long train of diseases will find in Electricity a sure means of cure. For painful menstruation, too profuse menstruation, and all of those long line of troubles with young ladies, Electricity is a certain specific, and will, in a short time, restore the sufferer to the vigor of health.

TEETH! TEETH! TEETH!

Dr. D. still continues to Extract Teeth by ELECTRICITY WITHOUT PAIN. Persons having decayed teeth or stumps they wish to have removed for resetting he would give a polite invitation to call.

Superior ELECTRO MAGNETIC MACHINES for sale for family use, with thorough instructions.

Dr. D. can accommodate a few patients with board and treatment at his house.

THE FINGER OF PROVIDENCE, from the Teachings of Experience seem to point to

THE GREAT HUMOR REMEDY,

HOWARD'S VEGETABLE CANCER AND CANKER SYRUP,

As the great and certain cure for all those fearful and destructive maladies which arise from an impure state of the blood. The wonderful success which has, in all cases, where it has been fairly tried, followed its use, leaves no room to doubt the blessed fact that Cancers may be cured.

The CANCER and CANKER SYRUP infallibly eradicates and cures the worst cases of Canker, even when given up as incurable by doctors. It banishes Salt Rheum entirely and permanently. In Erysipelas its effects are surprising. All cases, however virulent, of Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swelling, or Tumors, are dissipated speedily. Old Ulcers are cured without leaving bad effects after closing them. The most terrible Scurvy complaints it banishes from young or old. Distressing Neuralgic Affections soon yield to its power. It clears the Complexion from Blotches and Pimples, renders it brilliant. It cures Jaundice and Dyspepsia, and all Eruptive Diseases. In all cases of Female Weakness and Irregularities producing General Debility, Piles, etc., its effects are miraculous.
